

Fighting testicular cancer takes balls.

300 danish men get diagnosed with testicular cancer each year.
Regular self-examination and early detection is key for treatment, which is why we're going balls deep on spreading awareness around a touchy subject.

